Comments:

Great job! Your final couple of sprints really pushed this product into a successful implementation.

You chose important stories. I just wish that you could have added a password change feature, since that would allow an administrator to create an account with a known password and then let the user update it to a private one. The mechanics would not have been difficult.

The site looks excellent to me. It seems to work well and has an attractive, uncluttered appearance.

Your tests weren't bad, but I'd like a script that anyone could follow. Likewise, some beta testing for the final sprint would have been useful.

Please use complete sentences and check the spelling in your retrospective document.
